Montgomery College Students to Perform ‘The Vagina Monologues’
Proceeds from Production on March 27 to Benefit Women’s Organizations

The Montgomery College Women’s Studies Program and the Women’s Studies Student Group will present a special student production of “The Vagina Monologues,” by Eve Ensler, on Saturday, March 27 at 8 p.m. The performance will take place at the College’s Theater Arts Arena, located in the Theatre Arts Building, 51 Mannakee Street, Rockville.

“The Vagina Monologues” is a collection of monologues that Eve Ensler wrote after interviewing hundreds of women. The resulting play celebrates women and works to raise awareness about the issues that affect women, such as sexuality, relationships, and domestic violence. These intimate portraits reveal women’s innermost thoughts and feelings about their lives and their bodies. “The Vagina Monologues” contains frank language and subject matter and is intended for a mature audience.

Approximately 25 students are involved in all roles of the production from acting to behind-the-scenes. Students and faculty are team-coaching and team-directing the production.

Tickets cost $12 for general admission and $7 for students and seniors. To request tickets, e-mail the Montgomery College Women’s Studies Program at: womensst@montgomerycollege.edu.

All proceeds will go to organizations that work to stop violence against women and girls, including the DC Rape Crisis Center and the House of Ruth. The V-Day Spotlight this year is on women in the Congo.

The performance will have ASL interpretation. For disability-related accommodations, call Genevieve Carminati, program coordinator, at 240-567-7446.
