The American Institute for Radiologic Pathology has a 6-month paid intern position available at their Silver Spring, MD office. This internship program is designed to acquaint students with the realities of scientific research and to expose students to potential career paths in the field of Radiology and its allied sciences.

The AIRP case submissions received for January, March, and April courses need to be reviewed to comply with HIPAA regulations before they can be considered as content for the AIRP archives. The intern will provide quality assurance support to the AIRP’s digital archives, assist with quality assurance checks of incoming cases prepared and submitted online by radiology residents attending the Radiologic-Pathologic Correlation Course, provide assistance to the administrator on quality assurance issues, ensure quality of images placed in archives, and prepare and maintain various quality assurance reports. The intern will attend program lectures and/or other program enrichment activities as directed and will write and present a final report summarizing their summer work efforts.

Qualified applicants will be enrolled in college and will have knowledge of medical terminology and anatomy, must be interested in medical research and radiology, and must be proficient with MS Office and familiar with Adobe Photoshop.

If you would like to put your experience and creativity to great use in a professional and team-oriented environment, please apply online by clicking on the link below. Please include a cover letter stating why you are interested in this position and what experience and/or skills you would bring to the position and to the organization.
